DREAM ROUND-UP

Hey Dreamers!

Have you heard the term, "bringing in the drag?"

That's authentic cowpoke talk for bringing in the stragglers on a cattle roundup. You can help bring in the drag for the Dream Roundup by encouraging friends, family and coworkers to plant their dreams.

Our top cowpoke at presstime is Amber Grady, who rounded up 215 dreams from the state of Florida. Amber used the dream exercise on our website, then inspired a group of high school students to plant their dreams, placing her state firmly on top.

There are several other top cowpoke contenders out there, including Shirley from Michigan, Philippe from Illinois, Maggie from South Carolina, and Linda from Florida. (Florida again! The rest of us are going to have to get cracking!)

If you're interested in "bringing in the drag" in your state and becoming a recognized "cowpoke," you can do it two ways: 1) Tell people to plant their dreams online and mention your name as reference, or 2) Send us an e-mail [E-MAIL LINK] and ask for some hard copy Dream Applications. They're duplicate forms—one copy goes in a sealed envelope to Dream Roundup Headquarters, where we

"I'd be happy with just a reliable car," sighs Charlene, a dream prospect in Aurora, Illinois.

With a smile, Dream Roundup founder (and author of The Dream Manual) Bradley Dugdale says she's approaching it all wrong.

"Don't settle," he says. "Think big. Envision your perfect life, in detail, and write it down. It's not self centered, or greedy, or impractical, no matter what you've believed all your life. Use your heart as your guiding light—it always knows the truth. When you live the truth, and acknowledge your passions, your dreams take on a life of their own. You'll find that suddenly the things you need are right before your eyes.

The Dream Report

The Roundup sent out a national press release announcing the vision of collecting 1,000,000 dreams and announcing award-winning actress Patty Duke as the honorary chairperson.

The media world is starting to take notice.

Co-founder Bradley Dugdale was on a Florida Talk radio show last Thursday for an hour and half and was a special guest Sunday on a radio talk show in Seattle Sunday morning.

Next week he and Patty Duke are scheduled for radio interviews in Daytona Beach, Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Huntsville, Alabama. And, we've received phone calls from local newspapers in the Pacific Northwest.

Not a bad start for the first week!

If you have an idea how to help promote the Dream Roundup, please send us an e-mail.

Dream Tip of the week

When you're writing your dreams,

BE SPECIFIC.

General dreams yield general results.

If you dream of a jump in your income, for example, state the dollar figure.

If you dream of achieving some benchmark of performance, specify it. If you dream of an improved relationship, spell out what that relationship looks like in your dream.

Dream States

Congratulations to the great state of Florida for overtaking Idaho with an impressive 223 dreams planted at presstime! Idaho is now in second place, with 147.

The states with 0 dreams planted are down to 12. Give 'em a nudge! They are:

Delaware	Mississippi
D.C.	New Hampshire
Iowa	New Mexico
Kentucky	Oklahoma
Louisiana	Vermont
Maine	Wyoming

Remember...

Never let your dreams die!
